Position: Adjunct Professor of News Writing

Location: Montreat, NC

Date Available: Aug 20, 2012

Summary

Montreat College is in need of an adjunct professor to teach CM 348 News Writing (3 credit hours). CM 348 is a junior-level course that is a practical examination of investigative reporting in print and online media. Topics include: developing the news story, AP formatting, exploring leads, interviewing sources, and understanding the reporter/editor relationship. Related issues address the ethical, legal, and social responsibilities of the journalist. Students will sharpen their reporting skills through the researching, writing, and editing of several publishable-quality news stories. This course is taught as core class of the Communication Major, within the Journalism Concentration. Montreat is a Christian liberal arts college, and as such, the integration of the Christian faith and learning is part of our mission statement.

Requirements

Applicant needs to have (minimum) a master’s degree in a related field (e.g., journalism, communication, etc.), and work or teaching experience in journalism.

Application

Email resume, cover letter, statement of faith, and references to Jim Shores at jshores@montreat.edu.

About Montreat College

Montreat College is a Christian liberal arts college accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools to offer master’s, bachelor’s, and associate’s degrees. The main campus is located in the Blue Ridge Mountains fifteen miles east of Asheville, North Carolina, a region recognized as one of the most attractive living environments in the United States. Satellite campuses in Asheville, Charlotte, and other sites supplement the main campus. The College is committed to Christ-centered teaching and learning, and is a member of the Council for Christian Colleges & Universities.